If they win all of them the Giants can still finish a game in front of them by winning five of their remaining hirteen contests. NEW YORK (N. L.), 3; CHICAGO (N. L.), 1. CHICAGO, Sept. 30 .- The Giants beat the Cubs to-day. The locally held delusion that the ancient ursine enemy was going to snatch four straight from the New Yorks combat in which the Giants fell down on enough to win and held the Cubs down to a single tally through the excellent pitching of Red Ames and through brilliant fielding.

Although they committed an error now and then the Giants made the big hostile horde of Chicago rooters sit up and take notice, likewise grip their seats as the latter witnessed some sensational work by the New York infielders. The Cubs were bear cats on the fight, but the Giants went them one better with pugnacity amalgamated with rapidity of execution. Frequently the Giants got caught in a jam on the bases so that they did not realize as they should have from the hard pounding they gave Miner Brown, but that only made them fight the harder to keep the Cubs from confounding the enemy. But thore was nothing but torridity on the ball field, and the battle was so keenly contested that there was no chance for its grip on the spectators to relax. Among the spectators were Bert Daniels, Slim Caldwell and Bob Williams, Highlander contributions to the field meet held at White Sox park to-night.

In the first inning McGraw sent his whole pitching staff, that is the unemployed memhers of the staff, out to a far corner of the field to warm up. Also he sent them out as much to keep warm as to warm up, this so that they wouldn't congeal on the bench and Brooklyn. be converted into human icicles in case one of them was needed. McGraw wasn't overlooking any chances to nail this game In fielding and in batting the New Yorks did capitally, but there was still a drag in their base running. They did not operate with their usual get there and discerning BROOKLYN, 6; ST. LOUIS (N. L.), 6. Louis, Sept. 30.-Poor fielding by Brooklyn players explains why the Cardinals managed to tie the score here this afternoon. each team owning a half dozen runs at the was called by Umpire Klem on account of darkness. The game will be played off to-morrow afternoon, when the teams hook up in a double header.

Elmer Steele, a Pittsburg castoff, who was nominated to oppose Harmon for firing line honors, pitched fairly good ball, much better than did Harmon, but his teammates refused to lend a helping hand, seven error the other hand, the Cardinals did not make a single break and the visitors carned their half dozen tallies by hard and timely punching of Harmon's shoots.

The Giants led all the way and Ames would have blanked the Cubs but for a muß at the plate by Meyers. The Chief let this play get away from him, but he recovered his batting eye and flayed the three flugered pitcher for the same number of hits that Brown has digits on his salary hand. Ames had his drop curve behaving admirably and was steady at all times. His pitching was most creditable notwith.

Admirably and was steady at all times. His pitching was most creditable notwithstanding it was made more effective by effulgent support from Herzog, Fletcher and Merkle. Herzog went through amazing gymnastics in snaring a couple of rifle shots and a feat that he and Merkle consummated in the fifth inning must be enrolled in the "greatest play I ever saw" category.

FIRST GAME.
A draw was the result of the double header played by the St. Louis Browns and the Highlanders at American League Park yesterday, the visitors capturing the first game, 5 to 4, and the New Yorks winning the second, 7 to 2. Clearheaded ball playing by Chase's men would have won the first encounter beyond a question of doubt. Hawk.p. But with three young recruits, Hoff, Curry and Magner, suffering from a case of rattles, the handicap proved too great for the home Magner made a lignum vitæ play when he failed to touch the home plate in the ninth inning in the midst of a batting rally that seemed to indicate victory for the Hillmen. Magner was sent in to run for Hemphill, who had received a base on balls, after Wolter, another pinch hitter, had knocked out a clean three bagger. Two runs were needed to tie the score at that stage of the proceedings and Zinn belted a long drive to the right field fence.

Wolter scored of course and Magner, behome too, loafed until he had reached third. Then he saw that Compton had thrown the ball to Moulton, who was in the outfield. The latter made a superb throw to the plate and Magner, suddenly realizing that he might be caught, did not attempt to slide in front of the catcher. Instead he ran behind that player and did not touch the plate at all.

his head and fanned. Wallace threw Knight out and a royal chance to score was lost.
Dolan opened New York's seventh with his third hit and Chase followed with a scratch. Cree sacrificed and Knight, hit by a pitched ball, filled the bases. While Moulton was throwing Hartzell out on a slow bounder both Dolan and Chase scored by the fastest kind of sprinting, the latter sliding around the St. Louis catcher, who failed to touch him with the ball.

Ford hit the left field fence for two sacks in the eighth with one down and galloped home on Doyle's three bagger to centre, his fourth hit. Chase lined one to the right field corner and made a clean home run, Dolan walking across the plate ahead of him. That clinched the Hillmen's victory.
